Further, the Petitioner has failed to establish any other legal bases for revoking the subpoenas.² See generally NLRB v. North Bay Plumbing, Inc., 102 F.3d 1005 (9th Cir. 1996); NLRB v. Carolina Food Processors, Inc., 81 F.3d 507 (4th Cir. 1996).

¹ The National Labor Relations Board has delegated its authority in this proceeding to a three-member panel.

² To the extent that the Employer has provided some of the requested material, it is not required to produce that information again, provided that the Employer accurately describes which documents under subpoena it has already provided, states whether those previously-supplied documents constitute all of the requested documents, and provides all of the information that was subpoenaed. Further, we note that the Employer contends, and the Region does not dispute, that no documents exist that are responsive to subpoena par.2.
